Sherbrook Investment Ltd. is investing around EUR 30 million in Slovakia. The private investment group wants to build a terminal for storage of fuels, lubricants and oils with storage capacity of 30 million litres in Sliač. As stated by the head of a branch of a foreign legal person Sherbrook, Boris Čižmárik, additional 60 new jobs will be created thanks to this investment project.

The investor wants to finish construction of the terminal, which will be ensured by the company Nikos Invest next year. “The project named Obchodný Závod Sliač (Business Plant Sliač) is growing plant on a greenfield site, and will be among the most modern plants for processing and storage of fuels, including aviation fuel, lubricants and oils,” said Čižmárik. The investor also plans to mix bio-components into diesel and gasoline. The plant will be located near the Sliač airport. The company wants to offer their services to Slovak aviation services in the future.
