A new industrial park called Panattoni will probably be built near Prešov. Company Accept s.r.o. plans to build it near the village of Záborské. The company wants to invest about EUR 4.5 million in its construction. As it is apparent from the investment plan, the company has already presented the project for environmental impact assessment (EIA). The construction of industrial zone should begin in March next year. Completion of construction is scheduled for about a year later.

The industrial park will be designed for logistics or for medium-sized companies focusing on light engineering, electronics, apparel and lumber production. The investor wants to build two buildings with appropriate transportation and technical infrastructure on the area of industrial park with an area of more than five hectares.
