About 450 highly qualified employees ought to find job positions at the Trnava industrial and technological park till three years. The town has already signed the agreement with 8 investors and is proceeding with other ones. Building industry, energetic, information technologies and other branches ought to be participating here. Co-operation with the automotive cluster - western Slovakia and with the centre of excellence, which ought to create near Material-Technological Faculty of STU seated at Trnava, is considered according to Štefan Bošňák, the Trnava major.

The park building-up, which will create in Priemyselná Street at the so-called brownfield, is going to launch this summer. The first step was obtaining the subsidy from the Slovak Agency for Development of Investments and Trade (SARIO) at the price of 95 percentages from valid expenditures of the project, what is almost 9.59 millions Euro. „It is not classical revitalization of the brown industrial zone like in case of other towns, but the industrial park, which ought to create conditions for investors to science and development,“ Peter Hajaš, the general director of SARIO, told.
